About this program

The aim of the Graduate Certificate in University Learning and Teaching is to enable you to be an effective and successful University educator, particularly with regards to contemporary issues in Higher Education. This Graduate Certificate program will support you in the development of learning and teaching capabilities that lead to transformation of your practice.

All courses in the program are practice-based and explore contemporary ideas, research and pedagogies in university learning and teaching. The courses provide opportunity to explore contemporary issues within your specific context, and engage in the scholarship of learning and teaching. You will design and deliver a project that you will disseminate to colleagues in a genre that ensures maximum impact.

As a graduate, you will be well placed to contribute to the scholarship of teaching and learning in your School, the University and your discipline.

The program consists of 2 prerequisite self paced courses (TFL and CDL) and 2 core courses: Contemporary Issues in Higher Education Course 1 and Course 2.

The two prerequisites required to enter the GCULT program are Teaching for Learning program (TFL) equivalent to 10CP, and Curriculum Design for Learning Program (CDL) equivalent to 10CP.

Information on TFL and CDL is available here:

Webpage with information on TFL and CDL

Once you have completed these two courses, you will be able to apply for credit and enter the GCULT program and enrol in 7035LFC and 7036LFC to complete the program.

If you have previously completed either TFL or CDL and have completed the assessment (to gain your AFHEA) then you will be able to use this towards credit to enter the GCULT program.. Please do not hesitate to contact the Program Director with any questions: Dr Kelly Shoecraft (k.shoecraft@griffith.edu.au).
